

IMPORTANT INFORMATION REGARDING YOUR PET BED

This heated pet bed is designed to provide low-level therapeutic warmth to improve your pet's overall health and well-being. You may not experience the same feeling of warmth when you feel the surface of the bed as your pet does, although the bed is working properly.

The bed will warm to 5°-10° degrees above room temperature within a few minutes after being turned on. This temperature increase is hardly noticeable by touch of the human hand.

As your pet lies down in the bed, the bed surface will continue to warm up until reaching the ideal temperature recommended by veterinarians. The best way to experience the feeling of therapeutic warmth or to ensure the bed is working properly is to place a pillow on the bed for a few minutes, then feel the bed. You should now be able to detect the heat. Remember that your pet is even more sensitive to heat and will be able to feel the heat even more than you will.

Low level heat therapy is recommended by veterinarians to help sore joints and muscles, increase circulation, reduce stress, and improve mobility. The bed you just purchased was precisely engineered to deliver these results. We hope that you and your pet enjoy the benefits of your new heated pet bed!
