

Iittala objects have been designed to withstand daily use and the test of time. Even objects that have been designed decades ago remain functional today. That is why they are sought out and have been kept in production.

The Iittala quality warranty covers all production and raw material flaws, but does not cover damage caused by carelessness or normal wear and tear. We grant the following material warranties for Iittala food preparation dishware: twenty years for stainless steel, copper, cast iron; and five years for coated products. The warranty applies to the cookware's steel parts and coating, but not to the plastic parts or the enamel.

Should problems appear with our product, please contact your local Iittala dealer or your closest Iittala sales unit.

Our availability warranty guarantees that Iittala objects are safe to buy because - thanks to their timelessness - their lifecycle is long. If we decide to discontinue an Iittala series, we will communicate this openly. This gives you time to complete your collection. Because mixing and matching products among the different series is easy, you can also complete your collection with other Iittala objects.